Gletin! Sauced with Corning Ware - Cornflower SauceMaker Trio

It's been almost a half century since I have talked about the SauceMakers.

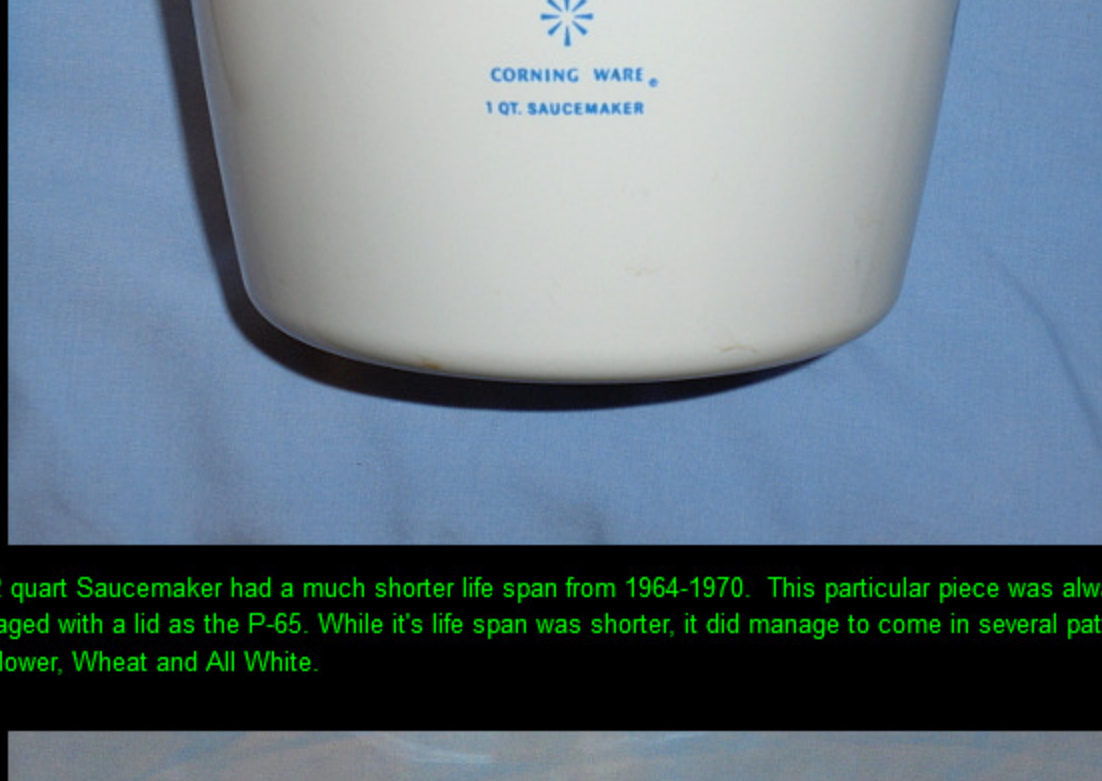

Those really strange shaped pieces made by Corning Glass World Consumer Products Division starting in 1963 and discontinued at the end of 1974. SauceMakers, according to the catalogs, were available in 1 quart (P-65) and 2 quart (P-66) sizes. The 1 quart started life in 1963 as the P-65 no lid. By 1964, a lid was added to the piece and it was packaged as the P-64. Both models were available until 1968, at which point, the P-65 was dropped all together and only the P-64 remained.

The only SauceMaker to last through the entire 11 year production period was the 1 quart SauceMaker, which appeared in several patterns other than Cornflower, such as Wheat, American Oil & Floral Bouquet as well as All White. The 1 quart started life in 1963 as the P-65 no lid. By 1964, a lid was added to the piece and it was packaged as the P-64. Both models were available until 1968, at which point, the P-65 was dropped all together and only the P-64 remained.

The 2 quart SauceMaker had a much shorter life span from 1964-1970. This particular piece was always packaged with a lid as the P-66. While it's life span was shorter, it did manage to come in several patterns, Cornflower, Wheat and All White.

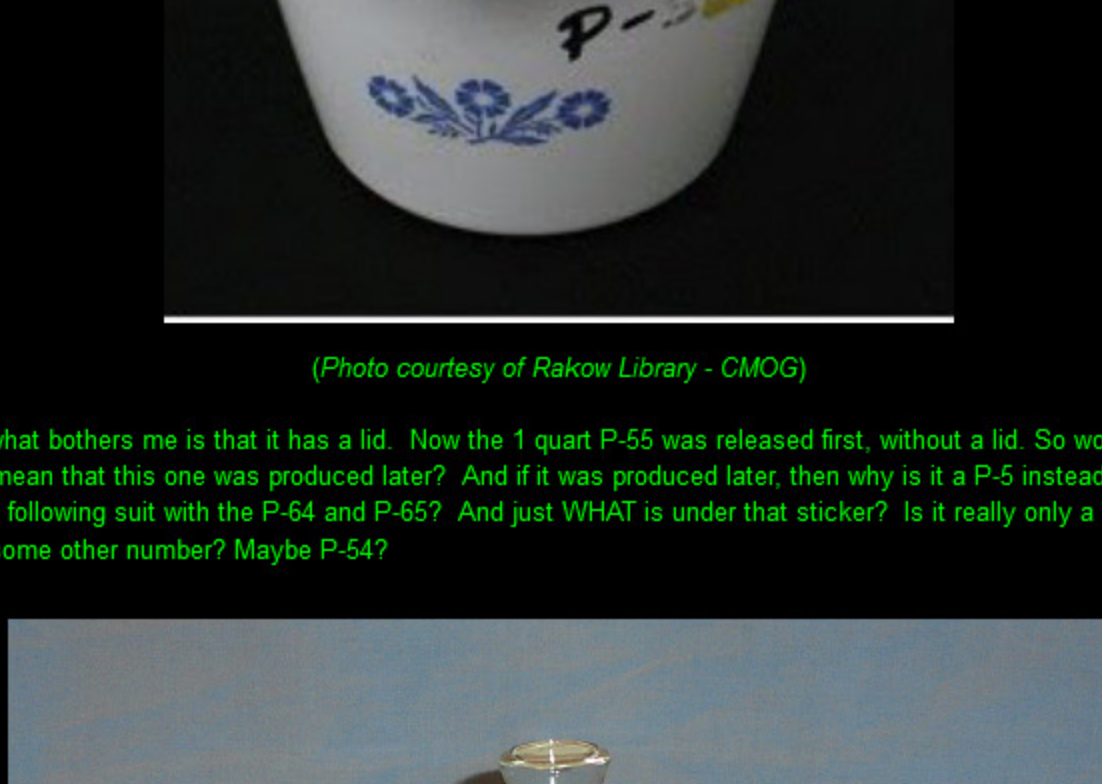

The 2 quart SauceMaker had a much shorter life span from 1964-1970. This particular piece was always packaged with a lid as the P-66. While it's life span was shorter, it did manage to come in several patterns, Cornflower, Wheat and All White.

Before I continue, it should be noted that the White Cookmates versions of the 1 quart (SM-1) & 2 quart (SM-2) SauceMaker were produced until 1970 before being discontinued.

The small 1 quart SauceMaker is still a bit of a mystery. It appears to have never been released to the market, though at least 6 have been accounted for at this point. CMSC (Corning Museum of Glass) has one labelled as a Prototype P-5.

But what bothers me is that it has a lid. Now that I've got my close up to what the inside of the lid, so we can see that this one was produced later? And if it was produced later, then why is it a P-6 instead of a P-63, following suit with the P-64 and P-65? And just WHAT is under that sticker? Is it really only a "B" or is it some other number? Maybe P-64?

Needless to say, mine has nothing printed on it to give any clue as to what the model is or whether it actually a prototype or not. It has a lid and, because the lid is what a potter pan uses a P-41: HG for a handle. (P-57 on left)

Thus are the mysteries of Corning Ware

Where is your Corning Ware??
